

Sharon Kirsh, born in Montreal; daughter of newly immigrated artisans, she spent her childhood creating, given free reign to paint murals on the walls. Self-doubt and practical concerns caused Sharon to bury artistic pursuits and she chose a corporate career. Painting with her young children reminded Sharon of her creative heart and led her to study Interior Design and Painting. Now a full-time painter, and popular art teacher, working with cold wax, curiosity and play are prominent in her work. They lead viewers through an abstracted, atmospheric, and imagined version of a natural landscape. Represented by Koyman Galleries and Butter Gallery.
